

The bees forest

by Andile

Once upon a time there was a very dangerous forest, known as Neal Forest where there lived a swarm of bees. These bees were very dangerous. One day a group of men came to cut down the biggest trees in the forest. While they were cutting the trees down a swarm came along and stung every one of them, then one of the men went to call a beekeeper and that beekeeper took the bees.