

The hungry cows

by Nokwazi

Once upon a time there were three cows near Mkhonduo river. The farmer was not excited with his cows because his cows were extremely sick and were suffering from brucellosis. The farmer was worried sick about the cows so he then took the two cows into the kraal so that he could take the sick cows to the vet to do some checkups. They found out that they were suffering from hunger then they fed the cows and they started to feel normal, like the other two cows, they got a full stomach and suddenly the farmer saw a change in the cows as they were roaming around with the other two cows and the farmer was happy.

The end of the story.